

Here's a story that seems to have been published—I'd give credit if I knew where—and it carries the best laugh of the football season: "The home team was taking a bad beating when the quarterback, looking for a pass over the huddle, found additional trouble—he had 12 men on the field. What we'll do," he told 'em, "is to go around end, and whichever one of you wants to quit can drop off as we go by this players' bench. The play went off perfectly. But in the huddle, the quarterback counted noses and sighed: "First we were one long—now we're three short!"

Hervey Holt called me this morning for help in his "Magic Master Magician" show which is being given at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock, tonight (Monday) as a benefit for the Kiwanis Club Youth Center.

"It's really 60c," said Hervey, "and, besides, it really is a good show."

Well, it shouldn't take any sleight-of-hand work to convince Hope that anything brought here for the Kiwanis Youth Center is a good deal.

Go on out there tonight and be mystified.

Personally, I have all magic shows figured out. The magician poses a good-looking girl on one side of the stage and half the audience is so busy keeping their eyes on the girl that the magician gets away with his trick before you catch on.

Current bulletin of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association points out an oddity in our government's financial affairs. Says SNPA:

"In a recent column, George L. Solovitz said the British while short on newspaper paper and long on idle facilities to manufacture and newsprint. He points out that these facilities are not being used because the British do not choose to expend their dollars to import wood pulp that is their choice and has nothing to do with except as they use American dollars obtained through ERP (now called ECA) which means that the American taxpayer provides the British with the raw materials to produce newsprint in competition with our own newspapers which do not receive money from their own government as a gift but have to earn it."

In view of the fact that this page is printed on newsprint which cost delivered in bulk at Hope for $4.10 a ton, against a prewar price of $4.10, and the current issue of Collier's magazine joins Saturday Evening Post with a price of 15c a copy (prewar price 3c), our squawk might be considered significant.

'Neutral' Nations Get Lesson On Russia's Use Of Veto

By JAMES H. FRASER

The latest Soviet veto has accomplished at least one useful purpose. It has shown the so-called "neutral" governments in the UN, and particularly the six whose representatives are in the committee, that the United States has been up against in dealing with Russia.

This is cold comfort, perhaps, but since Russia has seemed to set some slight store by favorable world opinion, the direct effect of Yishinsky's veto on that opinion cannot be dismissed as entirely unimportant.

The neutral resolution was a conciliatory document, and at the same time it showed the authors had bent over backward to avoid condemning the Soviet Union for the blockade. It offered a face-saving exit from the stubborn crisis. It gave to Russia, as American Mr. Jessup pointed out, what she claimed to want—the direct zone mark as the sole Berlin currency, a foreign ministers' conference on Berlin and Germany, and other concessions.

Some of the neutrals had considered the neutral resolution as a States and Britain toward Russia too hostile. They apparently thought that the western powers had not used all the available diplomatic approaches in trying to settle other differences with the Soviets. It may be assumed that the mild and reasonable Berlin resolution was an example of how they thought the job should be done.

But the result was the same. Russia would not lift the blockade. On the surface, the reason for refusal was petty. But it must be clear now to all the UN members that the Soviets do not want settlement.

They obviously do not want it until they have tried to drive the three western nations out of Berlin. They do not want it until they see whether their agents can exploit the French goal strikes to wreck that country's economy.

They want no settlement until they try other means of defeating the Marshall Plan, or until they can set up a strong Communist militia in eastern Germany, and then withdraw their own troops with a great show of friendliness and peaceable intentions.

The Kremlin has its bets down on all these possibilities. It is gambling on the chance that it can win all those bets and then settle with the losers on its own terms.

Now even the neutrals' admirable desire for conciliation can scarcely conceal from them what the targets of Russia's expansionist policies have seen for so long. The latest Soviet veto will probably win more neutral support for the western cause in the UN. It should also make the neutrals more sympathetic to the west's firm resolution to defend itself in the economic war that the Kremlin is waging on a broad front and with all the non-shooting weapons at its disposal.

Marshall to Make Truman's Peace Appeal

Paris, Nov. 15 — (AP)—An informed source said today Secretary of State Marshall will answer for President Truman a United Nations leaders' appeal for a Berlin peace.

U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, president of the general assembly, dispatched letters Saturday to the chief executives of the Big Four powers asking for four power talks to settle the Berlin crisis.

The letters were sent to Mr. Truman, Prime Minister Stalin, French Minister Clement Attlee of Britain and Premier Henri Queuille of France.

The source said Marshall will answer the Lie-Evatt peace letter as soon as he and the British and French ministers hold consultations. Marshall, British Minister of State Hector McNeill and French Foreign Secretary Robert Schuman are expected to meet tomorrow or the day after to discuss the letter at that time, the source said.

It was indicated that every phase of the American-British-French consultations will be relayed to President Truman.

The source said, however, that Marshall, acting in his capacity as spokesman for the United States on foreign affairs, actually will answer the letter.

The United Nations looked to the American answer for a cue to the success or failure of the peace appeal.

U. N. circles said the Lie-Evatt appeal was aimed at the American president in the hope he would agree to meet the other three if he felt the moral weight of the U. N. was behind such a meeting.

U. N. officials said privately they expected Stalin would agree quickly to the appeal. Dispatches from Moscow said foreign diplomats in the Russian capital believe Stalin will accept.

The U. N. informants said the big question is what reply Mr. Truman will make to the letter.

White House officials at Key West, Fla., where Mr. Truman now is relaxing, had no comment yesterday on the Lie-Evatt appeal. The latest word here from White House officials was that the president preferred trying to settle disputes through the U. N. rather than through independent talks.

Because of Lie and Evatt's high positions in the U. N. and because their appeal was an invocation of a Mexican resolution approved recently by the U. N. general assembly, U. N. officials felt the president's objection to direct talks might be removed.

The Mexican resolution calls for big power cooperation in the solution of world problems.

AFL Demands Quick Repeal of Labor Law

Cincinnati, Nov. 15 — (AP)—The American Federation of Labor keynoted the start of its 67th convention today with a demand for swift repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and the re-shaping of a strong Labor Department.

President William Green, who has set the tone of every convention since 1924, was scheduled to open this one. He was to be followed by Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, who has informal approval from the AFL for his plans to rebuild the Labor Department. Sharp appropriations cuts and agency transfers by the Republican-controlled 80th Congress have drastically reduced its size in the past two years.

The 75-year-old Green, who was eight years old when the AFL was formed in 1881, was expected to claim for the federation a large piece of credit for President Truman's repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

The AFL entered a political league in the 1948 campaign for the first time in its history. The league never offered to back Mr. Truman, but 95 per cent of its members worked for a Democratic victory, AFL leaders said.

In the congressional contests, the AFL—like all the other labor political organizations—campaigning to beat lawmakers who voted for the Taft-Hartley act.

On the eve of the convention opening, the AFL council voted to demand outright repeal of the act, now that the Democratic party controls both houses of Congress.

As the basis for a new law which the labor organization would regard as fair to both employers and workers, the AFL leadership proposed a quick return to the Wagner Act.

The Wagner Labor Relations Act, adopted in 1935, was amended by the Taft-Hartley act, passed over presidential veto last year. The labor leaders would build on that on the basis of experience with the 17-month old Taft-Hartley act.

Green told newsmen the council favored repeal by March 1 regardless of whether there was any labor statute to take its place. However, other members of the policy-making group explained the council must have misunderstood the action.

A gap between repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and passage of another law would leave a serious "vacuum" when the nation would be without a Federal Mediation Service or other agencies to handle disputes outside the railroad industry.

The AFL leaders hastened to correct the impression that they wanted that to happen.

Forrestal Tells Truman He Can't Serve in Cabinet

Berlin, Nov. 15 — (AP)—U. S. Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal said yesterday he had already notified President Truman he would not be able to serve "through his entire administration of the next four years."

The White House made no comment on Forrestal's statement.

Forrestal talked with reporters at Tempelhof airfield just before departing for Frankfurt and Paris. He is completing a hurried European tour to consult with government leaders on western Europe's military defense.

Forrestal estimated the airlift supplying blockaded Berlin was costing the American taxpayer at the rate of $100,000,000 a year. But, he added, it's a "good investment for peace."

Dockworkers Ready for Long Strike

New York, Nov. 15 — (UP) — East Coast dockworkers indicated today that they were ready for a long strike as Mayor William O'Dwyer met with Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), to discuss the walkout that has crippled East Coast shipping.

The strike had idled 65,000 members of the union, including 45,000 longshoremen and 20,000 helpers and checkers, and threatened to idle thousands of more workers whose jobs depend on shipping.

Officials in Baltimore estimated that 2,000 men would be laid off there this week if the strike continued. Some ships were tied up in the Baltimore harbor, approximately 30 of them in the repair yards.

Rank-and-file members showed no inclination over the weekend to reduce their demands for a 50-cent an hour wage increase.

John J. Sampson, New York strike leader, said, "The strike is solid. The men are determined to stick it out."

Many of Boston's 2,000 dockworkers were reported seeking new jobs in anticipation of a "long strike" despite the optimism of John M. Bresnahan, acting director of the Boston port authority. Bresnahan said last night that "a good basis" existed for settlement of a similar strike on the West Coast "in the very near future."

He said the Atlantic strike "might easily be settled soon after."

Halifax dockworkers announced that they would refuse to load any ships diverted to the Nova Scotia port from the strike-bound U.S. ports. However, New York shipping officials said that there were no plans to load cargo ships at Halifax that normally would be loaded in New York.

Ship owners offered, and union leaders recommended acceptance, of 10 cents an hour increase, but longshoremen turned the offer down.

O'Dwyer cut short a California vacation to return to this strike-bound port which has more than 200 ships tied up in the harbor, hampering the flow of Marshall plan aid to Europe.

The mayor said that in addition to the talks with the ILA president he had conferred by phone with Cyrus Ching, head of the Federal Maritime and Conciliation Service, offering the city's cooperation in settling the walkout.

Four small liners with a total of more than 700 passengers abroad were to arrive during the day. Their passengers will be forced to carry their own baggage ashore, even as one of the wealthiest men, John D. Rockefeller III, who arrived yesterday on the liner Saturnia from Italy.

The closed ports from Portland, Me., to New York, when members of the ILA rejected a new contract negotiated by Ryan and calling for a 10-cent hourly raise.

Philadelphia said he now was pressing for the union's original demand of a 50-cent an hour increase.

In Philadelphia, striking longshoremen turned down an army request that they load food and mail shipments for troops overseas.

However, that appeared to be a local dispute, for the loading of army ships continued normally in New York, army authorities replying that they anticipated no trouble with longshoremen here.

Life-Termers Use Mother's Funeral to Escape

Excelsior Springs, Mo., Nov. 15 — (AP) — Two lifer convicts used their mother's funeral yesterday as a means of escape.

George Sylvester Huston, 41, and his brother, Ernest Gordon Huston, 23, both serving sentences for murder, were permitted to leave the Missouri State penitentiary at Jefferson City in custody of two guards to attend the services here.

Prior to going to the funeral home, the convicts were allowed to join about 20 relatives in the house where their mother had lived. The guards, James Farmer and Albert Phillips, remained outside and watched through a window.

The Hustons left the other relatives and fled through a rear door. Highway patrol, city and county officers were alerted but no trace of the men were found.

Six Persons Meet Violent Deaths

By United Press
At least six persons — three of them pedestrians — died violently in Arkansas over the weekend.

Four traffic deaths brought the state's highway toll for 1948 to 341.

Wanda Sue Jackson, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jackson of Biscoe died in a DeWalls Bluff clinic after being struck by a car near her home. State patrol men said the girl ran across the road into the side of an auto driven by Robert Moss Montgomery of Memphis. He was released on $500 bond after being charged with negligent homicide.

Earlier two other pedestrians were killed. Virgil Douglas Estes, 30-year-old Harrisburg farmer, was killed when struck by a car on Highway 40 near Lepanto. Blake Henry Spurrier, 45, of Sheffield, Ala., was killed when he and an automobile near West Memphis.

In another traffic accident Harry Thomas Bates, 37, of Benton county was killed when the car in which he was riding overturned on Highway 71 west of Rogers. Officers said the vehicle dipped over as the driver, Bill Boyd of Rogers, swerved to avoid a collision with an oncoming car. Boyd and a third passenger, Dale Jordan of Rogers, were summoned to appear before Prosecuting Attorney Ted Coxsey for further investigation today.

Officers said Bates was the fourth person to die while riding in the car, which was owned by Boyd. They said the auto's first owner, a St. Louis man, was killed while driving near the Missouri City. Later sold in Rogers, the car was handled by Arthur Summers, a high school student, when he and Conrad Silvers were killed last April.

In other deaths Mrs. Florence Kirkland, 66, of Little Rock, apparently took her own life by jumping at the Capital city and barging at the Capitol. She was shot and killed by a neighbor, Lillie Hines. Murder charges were filed against Lillie Hines, also a Negro.

The Doyle Home Demonstration club met November 10 at the home of Mrs. H. H. Spring with eight members and three children present. The house was called to order by the vice-president. Devotional was read by the hostess.

Song of the month was "Old Folks at Home." The roll call was answered with "One thing I am thankful for."

Election of new officers was not carried out on account of the small attendance. We will carry that out at our meeting on December 8 at the club home.

Plans were made for a Christmas party, but no definite date was set, to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Odean Westfall.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and hot cocoa were served.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
WRITER FOR NEA SERVICE

The amount of suffering and the time lost from work caused by rheumatism of all kinds, including arthritis, is colossal. About one out of every 20 Americans is afflicted with rheumatism. Approximately 147,000 are believed to be completely disabled and altogether 7,000,000 are afflicted by some form of rheumatic disease.

Rheumatism and arthritis have been terribly neglected. Millions of dollars are being spent to attack tuberculosis, cancer, heart disease, and infantile paralysis, for example. Only about $200,000 is devoted to research on arthritis and rheumatism. Thousands of victims of rheumatism are being treated in hospital beds as available throughout the country for patients with tuberculosis, but only about 100 have been put aside for the study and treatment of rheumatism.

Huge Loss
Nearly 100,000,000 work days are lost each year in the United States because of rheumatism. The financial loss to the neighborhood of $750,000,000 each year, of which amount $500,000,000 is lost in wages by sufferers from arthritis or rheumatism, and $100,000,000 is spent for medical, nursing, and hospital care.

In view of all this terrific loss in time, money, and most of all in suffering, it is surprising that the problem has not been attacked more vigorously before this. At long last something is going to be done about it. A new group of public spirited citizens and physicians interested in the rheumatic diseases are establishing an organization known as the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

This group aims to stimulate and support badly needed research on arthritis and rheumatic diseases. It intends to aid in the building of a larger corps of trained specialists and to establish more hospital beds which can be used for the treatment of victims of rheumatism and arthritis and for the study of these diseases.

Several different kinds of joint diseases are recognized. Some of these will be discussed in this

Aged Eel Near Death
Stockholm —(AP)—An 88-year-old eel in the museum of Helsingborg, Sweden—claimed to be the oldest eel in the world—is failing rapidly. Caught by two boys in a creek outside the south Swedish city in 1863, the eel, named Putte ("Ducky" in English, "Pueppchen" in German) has outlived his captors. About a year ago Putte developed a tumor and is now getting weaker and weaker. Experts on fishes' diseases have not been able to help him.

DOROTHY DIX Advantages of Marriage

Dear Mrs. Dix: I am a girl of marriageable age, but recently I have heard so many gripes against marriage that I am beginning to wonder if I really want to marry, or if I had better play safe and be an old maid. Here are some of the discouragements that they hand me:

"After you marry the thrill is gone, and there is no more love-making. When a woman marries she loses more freedom than a man does, for she soon is tied down by babies."

"After marriage most husbands have enough money for the household expenses and cannot give fancy clothes to a wife. During the first year of marriage a girl loses the desire for dolling herself up and lets herself become fat and ugly."

"There comes a time in all marriages when husbands become tired of their wives' nerves. 'All wives get on their husbands' nerves.'"

That is what married people say about marriage. Will you please tell me some of the advantages, if any.

LOUISE
Answer: Don't let the grouches get you down, daughter. There are bound to be more kisses than kicks in the holy estate, or else practically every woman would be breaking her neck to get into it. Of course, the charges against matrimony that you enumerate are true enough in many cases, but the springs eternal in the feminine breast and every girl thinks that she is going to get a great lover for a husband and live happily ever after.

Marriage is Good Bet
The marriage is the romantic dream of the girl. It is going to be; but taking it by and large, it adds up to being a pretty good bet, even when Friend Husband turns out to be just an ordinary guy instead of Prince Charming. To be sure, it saves a girl from the fate that she draws the most of that of being an old maid. She can relax and take it easy because she has hooked her fish. She can assume the superior air that all married women wear because she has proved herself an attractive one to a man, at least. Whatever costs a woman to be able to write "Mrs." before her name is justified.

Another highly desirable quality in a husband is that he is a man, as a general thing, and any woman who ever has had to earn her own living knows that it is a mighty comfortable thing to be able to sit back and let George do it.

Still another advantage in having a husband is that a wife has a stooge upon whom she can vent all her temper, nerves, disappointments and blunders. Husbands get the blame for their wives' faults. They even have to pay their wives for divorcing them.

Many a wife, without beauty, brains or charm herself, rises into high society and sits in the seat of the mighty because she has a brilliant husband. And many a woman who couldn't make a dollar herself wears diamonds and rides in Cadillacs because her husband is a money-maker.

And chief of the advantages of marriage are the children and the home that represent the greatest blessing that life can give anyone.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 15 years old and in love with a man who I have told him that I love him, but he says the only thing I can do is to wait until I am 18. I feel the way I do. He also tells me that if I date any other boys or if he ever sees one here in my home again. Every time we are together his love's feelings so much that I cry.

What should I do? Should I wait and see if he will fall in love with me?

PEZZLED GIRL
Answer: You should say yourself. SILLY GIRL, for putting such a greater lack of just plain, ordinary common sense than the way you are letting this dog-in-the-manger treat you. Can't you bring up and have a little pride and dignity instead of letting him make a dogmat of you and kick you around? For he tells you plainly enough that he doesn't love you and yet he is willing for any other man to have you.

Of course, your age is your only excuse. You are too young to really know what you want in a husband. You don't even seem to want a gentleman. But I want you to know that you are wasting your life by letting a fellow who has been looking in the wrong places.

Elizabeth, Young Prince 'Doing Fine'

London, Nov. 15 —(AP)—Joyous Britain reared a welcome today to the tiny Prince of Edinburgh, first born of beloved Princess Elizabeth.

The "bony lad," as Buckingham Palace attendants called him, weighed seven pounds, six ounces at birth Sunday at 9:14 p. m. (3:14 p. m. CST). Elizabeth, heiress-presumptive to the throne, and her husband, who became second in line, both were declared in satisfactory condition.

The U. S. warships Columbus and Hamul joined British naval craft at Plymouth in firing a 11-gun salute to the royal child.

The royal horse artillery, King George's own troops, wheeled six guns into Hyde Park and fired salutes during the day in honor of the child and his mother.

Elsewhere trumpets and bands blared; bonfires flamed and fireworks snapped.

The baby was born six days before the first wedding anniversary of Elizabeth and Prince Philip. And their jubilant feelings were echoed in the hearts of people everywhere.

Today, 41-gun salutes will boom out and bells will peal from thousands of churches throughout the commonwealth.

The brief bulletin left many questions unanswered: Was trilete, an anesthetic, administered? How long was the princess in labor? Have the prince's names been chosen?

Although the name of Elizabeth's son was not announced, King George already has disclosed he will have the title Prince of Edinburgh and will be addressed as "royal highness."

The infant's name will perhaps be kept secret until the christening, probably in the church at Sandringham, King George's favorite country estate, where the royal family is expected to spend Christmas.

One may assume that selections have been made and that two of them are George, for the King, and Philip, for the father. Albert may be included in deference to a custom initiated by Queen Victoria, who asked that the name of her consort be included in that of future princes. In the running, too, is Louis, for Earl Mountbatten, Philip's uncle.

These and many other questions were pondered by the people after the high drama of the scenes at Buckingham Palace had ended and the crowds, told there would be no further news during the night and that the princess needed rest, dispersed happily.

They issued this bulletin: "Her royal highness, Princess Elizabeth, has had some sleep during the night. Her condition and that of the infant prince is satisfactory."

The baby weighed seven pounds, six ounces, at birth, an announcement said. Members of the court described him as a "lovely, boy, a really splendid baby."

Court circles said the wording of the doctors' bulletin, referring to "some sleep," indicated the princess did not have an entirely peaceful night.

But the birth evidently was uncomplicated and the labor short. The baby arrived so quickly some believed he had been born before the birth date was born.

Claire Trevor, New Hussy on Honeymoon

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 15 Nov. 15 —(AP)—Claire Trevor and Producer Milton Bren were honeymooning today.

They were married here yesterday at the home of Superior Judge Thurmond Clarke. The film couple said they would honeymoon in Northern California.

It was the third marriage for the 36-year-old actress and the second for Bren.

austere London has not known since Elizabeth and handsome Prince Philip were married last November.

The birth came six days before the first anniversary of that dramatic event in Westminster Abbey.

In time, the child doubtless will be designated Prince of Wales. This is not an automatic title, but one created. Throughout history it has been exclusive to the sovereign's eldest son.

Ordinarily, Elizabeth's son might have to wait for the honor until his mother became queen, but it is felt in some circles that a special dispensation might enable him to assume it sooner.

The infant is second-in-line heir presumptive to the throne because there are several possibly but unlikely contingencies in the succession.

Boys have an edge on girls in the succession. It is a medical fact that Queen Elizabeth can have no more children. But as a historian looked in such matters put it: "If our dear queen should die, which God forbid—and his majesty should marry again and have a son by his second wife x x x."

Britons everywhere rejoiced at the word spread around the world. And their jubilant feelings were echoed in the hearts of people everywhere.

Today, 41-gun salutes will boom out and bells will peal from thousands of churches throughout the commonwealth.

The brief bulletin left many questions unanswered: Was trilete, an anesthetic, administered? How long was the princess in labor? Have the prince's names been chosen?

Although the name of Elizabeth's son was not announced, King George already has disclosed he will have the title Prince of Edinburgh and will be addressed as "royal highness."

The infant's name will perhaps be kept secret until the christening, probably in the church at Sandringham, King George's favorite country estate, where the royal family is expected to spend Christmas.

One may assume that selections have been made and that two of them are George, for the King, and Philip, for the father. Albert may be included in deference to a custom initiated by Queen Victoria, who asked that the name of her consort be included in that of future princes. In the running, too, is Louis, for Earl Mountbatten, Philip's uncle.

These and many other questions were pondered by the people after the high drama of the scenes at Buckingham Palace had ended and the crowds, told there would be no further news during the night and that the princess needed rest, dispersed happily.

Vandenberg May Head GOP Policy Group

Washington, Nov. 15 —(UP)—Sen. Arthur W. Vandenberg, R., Mich., was being advanced today as a compromise candidate for chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee.

Though he is not seeking the post, Vandenberg was being boosted by some members of the "old guard," as well as some of the "young Turks." The chairmanship was held during the 80th Congress by Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O.

Cooler heads among the Republicans were warning the "young Turks," however, to "lay off Bob Taft" in their fight for a change of command. They said that if the policy committee post is made a "personal issue," Taft will battle to keep the job—and very probably win.

Under present regulations, he would have to step down as chairman of the GOP policymaking body. But it has been suggested that the rules could be changed, or the Ohioan could seek the GOP floor leadership with its ex officio chair of the policy table.

Actually, the "young Turks" would like to see both the policy committee job and the floor leadership go to young "liberals." The names of Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Conn., and William E. Knowland, Cal., have been mentioned.

Injured Saving System Best Atom Defense

Washington, Nov. 15 — (UP) — Civil defense planners, advising that air raid shelters afford only partial protection from atomic attack, say the best preparation for American cities is to have ready a system to save the injured, put out fires and prevent panic.

What amounts to a primer for the public on what to do if hit by the weapons of modern war was issued over the weekend by the Office of Civil Defense planning. It is a report by 14 experts to Secretary of Defense Forrestal.

The recommendations are based on the idea that civil defense is the function of localities and that the actual operation should be up to the states and cities, with a federal Office of Defense existing only for purposes of advice and coordination.

The report emphasizes that such existing agencies as police and fire departments provide an excellent starting point for civilian defense in time of attack. But because of the magnitude of attack that might be expected, the problem may be greater than any single police or fire department can handle.

Therefore the civil defense planners recommend the creation of volunteer mobile reserve battalions, set up under state control and would be small — technicians to government.

The planning group pointed out that the aim should be to build the civil defense structure on volunteer groups which could be expanded swiftly if war came.

The estimate was that in wartime as many as 15,000,000 persons might be engaged in civil defense. But during normal times, the force skilled in dealing with atomic dangers, poison gas attacks, and the menace of what the planners called "other special weapons."

What this means — but what military security did not allow the civil defense planning office to say openly — is germ warfare.

From indirect references in the report, it is apparent that some recommendations for protecting the population against bacteriological warfare have been decided upon.

The germ warfare recommendations obviously deal not only with possible attack on humans but on the crops and livestock of the nation. Three experts, one in each field, who are members of the secret bacteriological warfare project to Camp Detrick, Md., were on the planning group.

Because they wanted the people and local officials to know what could happen if a World War III came, the planners presented a dark picture of possibilities. Attack, they said, might come by bombers, they said, might come by guided missiles from distant points or from submarines off American shores. Or it might come from saboteurs within the borders of the United States.

On the subject of shelters, the planning group commented that with the much greater destructive power of the atomic bomb "it now seems clearer than ever that only partial protection would be feasible."

Auto Salesman Admits Tip Expected

Washington, Nov. 15 — (UP) — An automobile salesman testified today that he expects a "tip" — ranging sometimes up to $500 — whenever he sells an automobile.

"I believe salesmen all over the country do it," William Manuel, Washington, D. C., told a House subcommittee investigating "questionable trade practices."

Manuel, a salesman for the Kennedy Oldsmobile Co. here, appeared before a House subcommittee investigating "questionable trade practices."

Manuel said that he has been on automobile salesman for 20 years and has been collecting "tips" through that entire period.

He insisted he never asked his customers for anything, but that they frequently offered him something and "I'd be a fool not to accept it."

Committee Counsel John T. M. Reddan asked him how he "suggested" that his customers slip him some side cash.

"I can't tell you," Manuel replied. "I use different tactics on all my customers."

"Are they usually effective?" asked Reddan.

"Well, I am eating three times a day and I am not going to mean," Manuel replied with a grin.

But he said he did not believe his boss, Robert H. Kearney, Jr., had accepted a $500 tip for selling a customer a car. He indicated he thought it all right for salesmen to take tips, but not agency owners.

"You have been doing it for 20 years?" Reddan asked. "And you think there is something wrong with it?"

"Well, I am only a salesman," Manuel said. "I don't believe that Mr. Kearney took $500."

One witness, George C. Gilbert, Jr., of Washington, D. C., testified that he had paid Kearney an extra $500 to get an automobile. He said he was "happy" to do it.

Manuel said Kearney "most certainly did not know" that he was accepting this and would probably fire him for doing it. He added that he had kept a record of it.

Costs in material and manpower would make impracticable construction of shelters with any high degrees of protection except in the special instances of civil defense control centers or similar facilities.

The Civil Defense Planning office was set up last March, under the direction of Russell J. Doolley, Omaha telephone company executive.

"I reported everything I earned," Manuel replied.

"But I am asking you the direct question as to whether you reported the tips on your gross income?" Reddan persisted.

"I reported everything that I earned," Manuel reiterated.

After a heated exchange, he admitted he did not remember whether he had reported all of the tips to income tax authorities.

Subcommittee Chairman William C. Clegg, R. N. Y., directed Manuel to return tomorrow with the records of his tips.

Earlier, two Washington residents testified that they had paid Manuel an extra $500 to get them automobiles. They were Carl Harrison, a bartender, and Harry Sawyer, a tavern keeper.

Manuel said that the money was paid to Manuel through a mutual friend named Ben Cohen. Cohen, called to the stand, said he had acted as an intermediary between the two parties.

Sawyer said, "I don't think that I should have been asked to testify about this."

Sawyer said that he had seen the extra $500, but that it didn't show up on his tax return.

On the issue, he said, "I was the spotlight, a 'headliner' in the car and front of the auto and other things."

Gambling Conviction Confirmed

Little Rock, Nov. 15 — (UP) — The Circuit Court of the Eastern District of Arkansas today affirmed the conviction of Al Sorrentino on a charge of operating a gambling house at the Flying Tiger night club near Jonesboro, Ark., which was affirmed by the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

"A gambling house might be operated at a loss," the high court said in rejecting Sorrentino's plea for reversal on the ground that the trial court had refused to instruct the jury that it must find he received some profit.

Sorrentino was sentenced to two years imprisonment. The Supreme Court previously affirmed the Circuit Court conviction of Howard (Blue) Clardy on a similar charge and had pending before it a third, the case of Joe Buchanan.

The high court opinion in Sorrentino's case said trial court witnesses testified gambling was conducted in a back room, known as the "blue room," of the club which Sorrentino leased, and that he assisted in conducting the games.

That evidence was sufficient to support the verdict, the opinion said. It also rejected Sorrentino's contention that he was not tried by a fair and impartial jury. It held his objections to two members of the jury were without merit.

Controversy over use of the 62-year-old Antioch Baptist church in Bradley county was settled in opinion reversing and demanding a decree of the Bradley Chancery court in the case of Walter Booker and others vs. Cleve Smith and others.

The opinion gave legal weight to a 1924 vote by which the church agreed to remain with the "convention group" of the Baptist denomination. A "landmark" group was permitted to continue using the church, under an agreement reached after the 1925 flareup.

History of a 1902 split among Baptists over handling of money for mission purposes was cited by the opinion. It was the dispute which led to the 1924 controversy in the Antioch church.

The court said it then voted 31-14 to remain with the "convention" faction, but agreed to permit the "landmark" group to use the church half the time.

The court upheld a Columbia court judgment of $2,500 for A. G. Harper against Mrs. Phillip Dees, Jr., for personal injuries and damages. The suit resulted from a collision of a car driven by Harper and a truck owned by Mrs. Dees.

Much Encouragement for the Belief That Communism Will Blow Up in Due Course

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Those who espouse the belief that Communism will blow up in due course because of its undemocratic structure (and they are many) have received plenty of encouragement for this view in the efforts of the 56-nation social committee of the United Nations assembly in Paris to draw up a charter of human rights.

Progress in writing this all-important document has been marked by a fierce battle between Soviet Russia and the anti-Communist nations. The efforts of the Muscovites have been aimed at limiting the rights of the individual and making him a puppet of the state.

In order to understand the significance of this, it is essential that we recognize the structure of present day Communism. A lot of people have the mistaken idea that the current Communism is the same old and beneficent ideology of long ago which laid down a humanitarian code of one for all and all for one. There is small relationship between today's Communism and the original brand.

The current so-called Communism is Bolshevism. It is a cold blooded philosophy of totalitarian dictatorship in which the individual is wholly subservient to the state—a cog in a machine. It is an ism which expands by strong-arm aggression.

That is the background for the maneuvers of Soviet Delegate Alexei Pavlov in the social committee, and he has fought doggedly for the totalitarian code. For example, he sought to delete freedom of religion from the declaration of human rights. Naturally this aroused hot opposition among the Democracies, to whom freedom of religion is a cherished right. And the draft resolution as finally adopted provides that "everyone must be guaranteed freedom of thought, conscience and religion."

Pavlov would have limited this to freedom of thought.

The Russian position in this argument about religion is easy to understand. One of the cardinal tenets of Bolshevism is that religion is the opium of the masses and must be destroyed. The reason is obvious: A religious person can't subscribe to the evils of aggression and totalitarianism. Hitler followed a similar line with his totalitarian Nazism. He tried his best to destroy religion in Germany.

Another hot fight has been waged in the social committee over freedom of speech and of the press. An article upholding these freedoms was adopted with the Soviet bloc voting solidly against it.

The Pavlov attacked a proposed article reading: "Everyone has the right to a nationality. No one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his nationality or denied the right to change his nationality." He maintained that the right to change nationalities should be omitted, and proposed an amendment but the article as originally presented was adopted with the Soviet bloc abstaining.

In this atmosphere of conflict be-
